

ALEXANDRIA WEDNES AF EV NING, FEBRUARY 10.

Norming is more apparent now than the fact that some of the Cleve and man, in the event of Hill's nomination for the Presideacy, will do all they can to defeat him, even if their efforts shall result in the slection of the republican candidate. Indeed, some of them in Boston, New York and Philadelphia go so far as to eay that such a result would be good for the democratic party, as it would demonstrate the wisdom and patriotism of that party to the people of the country. Fortunately for the country, the strength of the men referred to lies almost entirely in their months. All real democrats will vote and work for the nominee of the national democratic convention, whether he be their special favorite or not. But as the vet; of New York, a democratic State, is essentially requisite for the election of a democratic President, and as neither Pennsylvania nor Massachusetts is democratic, if the delegation from the former State to the convention shall cast a solid vote for Mr. Hill, he will in all probability be nominated, irrespective of the opposition of some New Yorkers who will not be in the convention, and who have opposed him for years, but whose voting strength, during the whole of that time, has been on a steady decline. The Cleveland or nothing men are doing their favorite no good.

WHAT BOTHERS a great many unscientific people is the remarkable difference in the lengt's of time required to produce death by electricity when applied intentionally and accidentally. A man who happens to touch a "live" wire, or a horse that treads on one, is killed instantaneously and without a mark to show the cause of death. But the murderer "electrocuted" in New York the other day, and all others killed by the same process, had to have the wires applied to him twice, and each time for more than a minute, before death was produced, and then not until all the skin was burnt from the parts of his body touched by the electrode, and the smoke and sound of his frying flesh of reciprocity with South American countries, is were apparent to all the spectators. But to ports five times mere from this country than all the scientific nothing is remarkable.

A NORTHERN Congressman, who has inpension rolls, says there are now fifteen the thousand foreign pensioners. And this, it must be remembered, twenty-seven years after the class of the war, and leaves out of view entirely all the thousands of foreign the mass hilled during the war, who treduced a bill to cut off foreigners from the ers who were killed during t e war, who have died sicce, who have not applied for pens ons, and who have never gore back to their own countries. And yet it is said the sou hern, were defeated by northern soldiers. H w can the truth of encient history be relied upon, when facts within the knowledge of living witnesses are so mis him several days tonger to make up his mind ja t what Mr. Bisine's let er means." Well, he needn't lose any more time. It means that if the nomination be offered to Mr. Blaine, and that gentleman bea ivert to time, he will accept it. Mr. Sherman also says that he, Sherman, is not "in it," and that "be is tired of being bought and sold " There is no doubt of the fact that Alger bought Mr. Sherman's delegates at the let national republican convention, nor of the fact that he was sold by Garfield at a previous one, so that he has good cause to be thred of the buying and selling process.

A RESOLUTION has been introduced in Congress to appoint a committee to investigate the matter, and report what articles manufactured in this country are shipped abroad and sold there cheaper than they are at home. If adopted, as it doubtless will be, the report of the proposed committee will open the eyes of some people to the enormities of the protective tariff, but none wider than those of the farmers, who will see by it that their riva's abroad can buy American made agricultural implements for less money than they are sold for here.

In consequence of a report that the antioption bill would pass, the price of wheat at Chicago yesterday fell four cents a bushel, to the loss of the farmers, but to the great profit of the "shorts," the "anarchists of America" as they have been termed, against whom the bill is intended to operate. Congress, as well as legislatures, had better let trade alone. The more they attempt to interfere with it, the worse for the people.

Letter from Richmond.

Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette. RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 9, 1892

The great problem that confronted the House of Delegates to-day was "what her a partridge is as good to est in October as a turkey in January." This stupendous inquiry was inspired by an effort on the part SENATOR SHERMAN says 'it will take of some to secure the passage of a general point that up near alexandria, and in the countles of Loudoun, Fauquier and Fairfax, the toothsome partridge and the delicious urkey got fat a month or so earlier than to the broom straw and slashes of Hanover, where Henry Clay was born The discussion turned upon the point expressed in the above query and it has not yet been decided. though some of the ableit men in the House whacked away at it in a debate of rare earcestness and power. Upon this tiems the immortal Catlett Gibson, the elequent and unterrified delegate from Culpaper, arcsa to the height of the occasion and sought to remove the bone of contention by laying both the turkey and partridge on the table to be taken up as unfinished business about dia ner time to-morrow.

Among the visitors at the Capital to-day was a small gentleman with bright spark ling eyes, a graneful carriage and a quick Ten years ago he cut a considerable figure in Richmond by a dashing, stasting, clashing and boldness of expression. He was an editor and was exceedingly popular with everybody. Ten years has made him bald, slivered his bair, but there is still left that genial, smiling, cheerful countenance that made Colonel John R. Popham such a favorite here a decade of years ago. Coi Popham's presence here recalls that diffi-culty he had with the lamented Robert Agee, who was business manager for Popham's paper. I was standing on Main street near the Dispatch office when the colonel fired a pistor at Agee, and rushing opetairs, I saw Agle lying prostrate upon the floor and Col. Popoam walking about the room greatly excited. As I leaned over Ages and endeavored to raise him up, he asked in platotive times "Am I killed?" A policeman standing near by replied, "no, the ball went up yonder in the wall." Thank God for that, said Agee, who after ascertaining that he was not dead got up and walked home. He and Popham attarwards were good friends and lived together, till Agee's death, in brotherly
